About Relapse Prevention Therapy:

Over the past 40 years research has clearly shown that relapse is a process that begins long before recovering people start using alcohol or other drugs. Alcohol and drug use do not mark the beginning of the relapse process—it is the final stage. Alcohol and drug use is just the final step in an ongoing relapse process.

Terence T. Gorski developed the Relapse Prevention Therapy (44 ceus) Training to address the relapse process. This training will rank among the most comprehensive and effective that you have ever experienced. It is an advanced clinical skills training designed for professional therapists who are good and want to get better. Roland Williams has been personally mentored by Mr. Gorski and authorized to teach this vitally important training.

Participants will be challenged to take your current clinical skills and integrate them with new and powerful approaches for teaching clients to identify and manage high risk situations and core personality and life-style warning sign patterns that lead to relapse in the critical early stages of the recovery process. The training is not easy, but most of our past students describe it as a major turning point in their professional and personal lives. You will leave this training better prepared to make a difference in the lives of your patients.

The training methods will consist of:

- (1) Brief Lectures
- (2) Clinical Demonstrations of Critical RPT Exercises,
- (3) Small Group Exercises,
- (4) Role Play Experiences to practice and receive feedback on key RPT exercises, and
- (5) Large group discussions.
